THE MARBURY LAW GROUP ANNOUNCES THE ADDITION OF NEW INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY PARTNER LEON RADOMSKY

Radomsky's In-Depth Knowledge of Cleantech and Nanotechnology Will Complement Technology Law Practice

RESTON, VA - June 13, 2010 - The Marbury Law Group, PLLC announced today that Leon Radomsky has joined the firm as a partner. Mr. Radomsky joins The Marbury Law Group from Foley Lardner LLP, where he was a partner in their intellectual property practice and founder and chair of its nanotechnology industry team.

“We are very pleased that Leon has joined our firm,” said managing partner John Mardula. “Leon's technical expertise and extensive patent experience will be important assets for our firm, enabling us to offer legal services to clients in the emergent alternative energy and nanotechnology fields.”

Mr. Radomsky is highly regarded in the nanotechnology field, having been named one of the Top Ten Intellectual Property Lawyers Influencing Nanotechnology by Nanotechnology Law & Business. He works with cutting-edge technologies, high profile venture capital firms, and some of the industry's leading nanotechnology and cleantech companies. In addition, he is a frequent speaker at nanotech and cleantech conferences on intellectual property issues facing start-up companies and investors in this area.

Mr. Radomsky joins Marbury Law after a 12-year career at Foley Lardner in which he rose to partner after starting as a law clerk. Prior to joining Foley Lardner, Mr. Radomsky was a patent examiner in the United States Patent and Trademark Office. Mr. Radomsky is a graduate of Columbia University (B.S. Materials Science and M.S. Metallurgical Engineering) and received his J.D. magna cum laude from the George Mason University School of Law.

“I'm very excited about moving my practice to The Marbury Law Group,” said Mr. Radomsky. “The legal and technical expertise of Marbury's team complements my own practice, and the firm's cost structure will enable me to continue to support my clients with competitive rates. I am also looking forward to being able to provide more personalized, hands-on services to my clients.”

Also joining The Marbury Law Group is Martin Sulsky, D. Eng. Sci., JD. Dr. Sulsky was previously with Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pitman, LLP, where he was a senior associate in their patent practice group. Dr. Sulsky earned a doctorate of engineering science in materials science from Columbia University, has practiced as a patent attorney for six years, clerked for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit, and served as a patent examiner in the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

“We are very pleased to have Dr. Sulsky joining our legal team,” said John Mardula. “His engineering expertise in materials science and physical chemistry coupled with his extensive patent legal experience will complement Mr. Radomsky's practice and broaden our firm's patent expertise."
